

What Your Buyers Love and Dislike in This Market

Competitors Analysis

We benchmarked tmrw website to brands targeting similar target audience

Criteria for competitors:

- Similar product
- Similar target audience

AG1[®] AgeMate

I·M·8[®] Huel[®]

Brand positioning

Review mining: Summary statistics & sentiment analysis overview from supplement market

AG1[®]

● Positive ratings ● Neutral ratings
● Negative ratings

Number of reviews: 1,338

Avg word count per review: 38

I · M · 8[®]

● Positive ratings ● Neutral ratings
● Negative ratings

Number of reviews: 880

Avg word count per review: 59

AgeMate

● Positive ratings ● Neutral ratings
● Negative ratings

Number of reviews: 1,752

Avg word count per review: 34

Huel[®]

● Positive ratings ● Neutral ratings
● Negative ratings

Number of reviews: 3,020

Avg word count per review: 39

Review mining: Summary statistics & sentiment analysis overview from supplement market

AG1[®]

I·M·8[®]

AgeMate

Huel[®]

positive neutral negative

Number of reviews: 1,338

Avg word count per review: 38

positive neutral negative

Number of reviews: 880

Avg word count per review: 59

positive neutral negative

Number of reviews: 1,752

Avg word count per review: 34

positive neutral negative

Number of reviews: 3,020

Avg word count per review: 39

Most frequent benefits cited by users within the market

Reasons why customers love the products

Source: 180 reviews from many reviews sites 2025. Own analysis.

Learnings & insights

- Top 3 drivers account for ~66% of delight — Energy & Focus (22%), Relaxation & Sleep (21%), and Effective Effects (21%) are all functionally-oriented.
- Energy & Focus is the #1 driver — users prioritize feeling productive and sharp above all else.
- Users care most about feeling a tangible difference — not ingredients, branding, or logistics.
- Taste matters more than quality or shipping.
- Relaxation & Sleep is a close second — these two drivers are complementary, representing both ends of the day: perform during the day, recover at night..

Most frequent frustrations cited by users within the market

Frustrations or complaints mentioned in reviews

Source: 180 reviews from many reviews sites 2025. Own analysis.

Learnings & insights

- Price is the dominant frustration by far (40.15%): 3x more cited than any other. This is the #1 objection.
- Subscription trap & shipping issues are tied as #2 (~14% each): users feel locked in and poorly served. TMRW can differentiate by making cancellation easy and transparent, and highlighting flexible subscription terms.
- "No difference" (10.66%): The same users who celebrate "effective effects" punish brands when they don't deliver.
- No human support (10.79%): customers want to talk to real people.

What people are saying...

TOP DESCRIPTORS BY FREQUENCY

Energy is what they buy for. Taste is what makes them stay. Easy is what makes them repeat. Every piece of copy needs to answer: will I feel it, will I enjoy it, will it fit my life?

"Expensive" (93x) appears as a standalone top descriptor: Combined with "waste of money" (18x), price perception is the #1 barrier to repeat purchases across the supplement market.

"Difference" (197x) is one of the most revealing words in the dataset: It's dual-use: some consumers say "noticed a difference" (positive transformation), while others say "no difference" (32x).

FREQUENT BIGRAMS (PHRASE PAIRS)

Habit language reveals daily integration: "Daily routine" (50x) and "morning routine" (26x) show these products become habitual — consumers integrate them into their day. This is a retention signal: once a supplement becomes part of someone's routine, switching costs increase.

The negative bigrams expose the market's credibility gaps: "No difference" (32x) is the most damning phrase — consumers who tried, waited, and felt nothing. "Early days" (35x) reveals reviews written before the product could possibly work, inflating ratings with first-impression praise.

What's missing is the real story: Across 3,970 reviews, there is zero language around clinical dosages, biomarker data, ingredient transparency, third-party testing, or long-term health tracking. The supplement market's public conversation is built on service, taste, hope, and routine — not proof.

What Stands Out — AG1

1 IMMUNITY SHIELD

The most distinctive and defensible benefit. Users report 1–5 years without colds or flu

"In the time I have been using AG1 I have never been unwell or suffered from colds, flu or COVID."

2 WELCOME KIT UNBOX

Shaker, metal scoop, canister, travel packs, D3+K2 drops. Users describe it as "a gift to themselves." Mentioned in ~10% of all reviews.

"The packaging is gorgeous. It felt like a little present for myself."

3 MORNING RITUAL

This ritualistic identity drives retention beyond product efficacy — it's about who you want to be, not just what you take.

"Every morning we mix our AG1 and start the day feeling great."

4 TRAVEL PACKS

Individual travel sachets solve a genuine portability problem that competitors haven't matched.

"The travel pack boxes mean wherever I am off to, my bag now just contains a box or a few sachets."

5 TRACK RECORD

AG1 has subscribers who have been loyal for 3–5+ years.

"I've been using AG1 for nearly 4 years now. It is simply part of my daily routine."

Objections & Barriers to Purchase — AG1

1

OVERPRICED MULTIVIT.

A £5/month multivitamin from Boots provides the same essential nutrients.

"It's a VERY expensive multivitamin. I can't help but think it's a marketing machine more than a health product."

2

HIDES DOSAGE

AG1 discloses total blend weights but not individual ingredient amounts.. 49/75 ingredients are hidden.

"I can't see exactly what's in their proprietary blend. It's definitely making me feel like they don't want you to see exact quantities."

3

FORCED SUBSCRIPTION

AG1's checkout defaults to subscription. Users report being enrolled without consent, difficulty canceling, charges continuing after cancellation.

"They had taken my card details and signed me, unaware, up to a subscription service. Apparently it was hidden in the small print."

4

LEAD CONTAMINATION

AG1 carries a California Prop 65 warning for lead. While AG1 explains this is due to naturally, users who discover it post-purchase feel deceived.

"Google Prop65 AG1 — their product has been tested to carry low levels of lead. Until they find a way to source ingredients that don't cause cancer I'm out."

5

INFLUENCERS

Skeptics assume every positive review is affiliate-driven. The 67.5% "Invited" review rate amplifies this distrust.

"The youtubers are lying. I can see why it was given to me for free. It tastes absolutely vile."

What should we do better — AG1

1. More human brand: Since AG1 receives a lot of criticism online due to its aggressive marketing strategy, overpromising claims, hype, and subscription issues, we can position ourselves as a more human and authentic brand.
2. Transparency as a core value: Whenever possible, we should clearly state the dosages we use or provide evidence that our current dosages are effective for users. There is no “pixie dusting” in our formulation.
3. Better formulation: Despite being an expensive multivitamin, AG1 does not include iron, vitamin E, vitamin D, omega-3, or other essential nutrients.
4. Safest version: All ingredients we use are clinically tested, and no potentially harmful substances are included. We should emphasize this.
5. Founder trajectory: While AG1’s founder has a criminal history, we can highlight our own successful journey and ethical business practices.

What Stands Out — IM8

1 EXTREME SIMPLICITY

The mental relief of “not having to think about it” is described with the same emotional weight as the physical benefits.

“No more buying multiple vitamin jars! They took all the work and stress away from me trying to figure out what my body needs.”

2 TASTE PEOPLE ENJOY

Taste is the most common reason AG1 switchers stay on IM8. Consistency of use improves when the product is enjoyable.

“IM8 really has nailed this, the taste is amazing. It doesn't feel forced like previous green products.”

3 RESULTS IN 2 WEEKS

IM8 users report noticeable energy and digestion shifts within 1–3 weeks. The felt dependency — noticing when you miss a day;

“Made a great difference, to the point that my body knows if it has missed a day!”

4 EXPERT CREDIBILITY

Named doctors, clinical formulation language, and third-party testing separate IM8 from generic supplement brands.

“I feel great taking IM8, knowing that Dr. Dawn Mussallem is responsible for the formulation.”

5 UNBOX - STEEL SHAKER

Red packaging, stainless steel shaker, personal Beckham note — the physical experience justifies the price at first impression.

“The packaging is gorgeous. The shaker is a stainless steel in a sexy red coating. It's heavy so feels of quality.”

Objections & Barriers to Purchase — IM8

1

OVERPRICED MULTIVITAMIN

Amplified for international buyers by currency conversion and customs. The core price objection that every premium supplement faces.

"It's a VERY expensive multivitamin. I can't help but think it's a marketing machine more than a health product."

2

ZERO PEER-REVIEWED

A clinical dietitian (35 years, RN) searched PubMed and ClinicalTrials.gov and found zero peer-reviewed papers matching IM8's claimed trials.

"I did not find a peer-reviewed journal article or a ClinicalTrials.gov registration with results that match the IM8 Daily Ultimate trial."

3

CELEBRITY MARKETING

Skeptics view the Beckham endorsement as a red flag — a sign of marketing budget over product substance.

"Purely a marketing stunt? I'll go back to the competitor who are much more transparent!"

4

SUBSCRIPTION TRAP

IM8 has even more complaints than AG1, mainly related to unclear subscription terms and difficulty canceling.

Counterpoint: 96% of reviews are Trustpilot-verified as unprompted. Many include specific personal timelines and medical histories inconsistent with manufacturing.

5

EXCESSIVE EMAIL MKT

Several users report receiving 5–7 marketing emails per day immediately. This aggressive approach damages the premium brand perception has built.

"Monday I had 5 marketing emails, Tuesday must have been 7."

What should we do better — IM8

1. Easy cancellation & hassle-free returns: IM8 faces heavy criticism for subscription traps and hard-to-cancel autoships. We can position TMRW as the opposite — flexible, no-pressure subscriptions with transparent cancellation and easy returns.
2. Clinically backed dosages: Experts have found IM8's proprietary blend doses are 10–40x below clinical study levels. We should highlight that our formulations match or exceed clinically studied dosages. No "pixie dusting," no underdosing.
3. Real proof with real people: We should invest in long-term case studies. Real users, tracked over months, showing genuine biomarker improvements and health outcomes.
4. Premium unboxing accessories: IM8's stainless steel shaker lid doesn't seal properly, causing spills on clothes, cars, and desks. We should turn this into our strength by delivering truly premium, well-crafted accessories.
5. Competitive pricing for international customers: IM8 is already perceived as overpriced, and international shipping costs make it even worse.

What Stands Out — AgeMate

1 AUSTRALIA MARKET

Captured the Australian longevity supplement market like no one. Their Instagram strategy is precisely targeted at the 50+ AU demographic.

"After watching a lot of the adverts on Facebook, everything seems legitimate and of high quality."

2 UNBOX FIRST IMPRESSIONS

The starter kit (metal storage container, branded water bottle, scoop, beautiful packaging) creates an exceptional first impression.

"I felt like I was opening a special gift. High quality drink bottle and air tight storage tin for the powder. Beautifully packed."

3 HIGH REPLY RATE

AgeMate responds to virtually every Trustpilot review, positive and negative. More than other companies.

"Purely a marketing stunt? I'll go back to the competitor who are much more transparent!"

4 ILLNESS TRANSFORMATION

Many positive reviews come from people with serious chronic conditions (arthritis, fibromyalgia, chronic fatigue, etc) who reported improvements.

"I'm 70 and thought my life energy had left me. I have only been taking Age Mate for a month and the results have been outstanding."

Objections & Barriers to Purchase — AgeMate

1 MADE IN CHINA

AgeMate positions as an Australian brand but manufactures in China. This creates a visceral trust breach for buyers who discover it.

"Made in China not Australia. They are very sneaky and don't disclose that unless you dig deep into their FAQs."

2 SIDE EFFECTS

Reports of nausea, stomach pain, dizziness, heart palpitations, and B6 toxicity. The product lacks clear warnings about interactions with medications.

"I developed serotonin syndrome since I was on low 50mg Zoloft. Not a safe product and needs warnings."

3 IS THIS JUST A PLACEBO?

Multiple reviewers observe that positive reviews overwhelmingly discuss packaging, delivery, and customer service rather than actual health benefits.

"Every one of these reviews have commented on delivery. Does it work? Not one person has said yes."

4 NOT TGA REGISTERED

Some Australian buyers question why AgeMate isn't registered with Australia's Therapeutic Goods Administration when competitor NMN brands are.

"I couldn't really find AgeMate's registration with TGA. Many other brands have registered. I am worried no one can confirm the ingredients."

5 SUBSCRIPTION TRAP

Customers report being enrolled without clear consent, struggling to cancel because there's no phone number and email responses are slow.

"I only ordered the promotional offer and have now been sent another subscription without even being informed by email!"

What should we do better — AgeMate

1. Fast delivery & responsive support: AgeMate's high reply rate on Trustpilot is one of their strongest assets. We should adopt this practice: fast shipping, proactive communication, and visible human support
2. Proven safety, zero side effects: AgeMate faces serious complaints about B6/B12 over-supplementation, serotonin syndrome with SSRIs, and no medication interaction warnings. We should guarantee safe dosage levels, clearly disclose all interactions.
3. Full regulatory compliance: AgeMate isn't TGA-registered despite competitors being so, and manufactures in China while positioning as Australian.
4. Retain high-value customers through exceptional service: AgeMate lost a customer who generated 15+ referral orders because they refused to send starter kits for gift subscriptions. We should identify and prioritize our most valuable advocates, ensuring customer service policies never drive away the people who bring us the most business.

How can we build the #1 leader of the market?

CRITERIA	BEST PRODUCT	AG1	IM8	AGEMATE
Clinically backed dosages Formulation matches clinical study levels	 Every ingredient at clinically studied doses. No pixie dusting.	 Missing iron, vitamin E, vitamin D, omega-3	 Blend doses 10-40x below clinical study levels	 B6 at 2x daily intake. Confirmed toxicity at 3x safe limit
Full ingredient transparency Every ingredient and exact dosage disclosed	 Open-label formula. Every ingredient publicly visible.	 Overpromising claims and aggressive hype marketing	 Hides behind proprietary blends. Consumers lose trust	 "Made in China" hidden in FAQs.
Easy subscription management Self-service cancel, pause, skip anytime	 Cancel, pause or skip in one click.	 Subscription issues reported. Cancellation friction	 24.4% of neg reviews: "scam", "fraud", subscription trap	 No self-service cancel. Must email. 28% of neg reviews cite this
Safe formulation & warnings Clinically tested, interaction warnings included	 Safe dosage levels. Clear drug interaction warnings on labels.	 Founder's criminal history undermines brand trust	 Unsafe vitamin D, K12, CoQ10 levels. No 3rd-party proof shown	 B6 toxicity confirmed. Serotonin syndrome with SSRIs. No warnings
Human brand with real proof Long-term case studies, real testimonials	 Long-term case studies. Real biomarker data. Human-first brand.	 Aggressive hype marketing. "Supplement theater"	 AI bots as humans. 26% of neg reviews cite this. No real proof	 Reviews at day 2-7 before product works. Packaging praise only
Fast reply rate & community Authentic engagement, reply to every review	 Reply to every review. Build real community. Authenticity first.	 Low engagement. No community presence	 AI bots reply instead of humans. Customers feel deceived	 99.2% reply rate. Strong practice we should replicate
Premium accessories & unboxing Quality touchpoints that match product price	 Leak-proof, premium shaker. Packaging justifies the price.	 Standard packaging. No standout unboxing	 Leaking shaker lid. 4% of all reviews. Spills everywhere	 Great unboxing but criticized for inflating product price

Source: 6,000+ reviews from Trustpilot. 2025-2026. Own analysis.

Key Takeaways | Review Mining

1. AG1's poor reputation: More than 20% of reviews are negative, driven by overhyped marketing, overpromising, subscription traps, aggressive affiliate tactics, the founder's criminal history, and lack of transparency.
2. Energy is the #1 motivator: people want to feel more alive and productive. Messaging should lead with energy and daily performance benefits.
3. Users need to feel a difference fast: the first three weeks are critical for retention. Prioritize quick, noticeable results in onboarding and communication.
4. Price is the biggest frustration: green powders are much more expensive than a balanced diet or pill supplements. Reinforce value and cost-per-day comparisons.
5. Convenience is the key differentiator: high performers, frequent travelers, and nutritionally deficient users see value in great taste combined with one all-in-one formula.

Key Takeaways | Review Mining

1. Trust must be earned through transparency: skepticism and negative reviews dominate this market. Human support, authenticity, and honest communication are essential.
2. Highlight the money-back guarantee and easy cancellation: removing risk is critical, in this market the brands are doing dark patterns and subscription traps.
3. Premium unboxing drives perceived value: people should feel their money was well spent. Thoughtful accessories and packaging elevate the experience.
4. Safe ingredients and proper dosages set us apart: highlight these as a differentiator from competitors cutting corners.
5. Credibility and reputation are core to conversion: associate the brand with major influencers, doctors, and certifications, but also prove results through real user stories and long-term studies with, not just links to generic clinical trials. We need to show that our product has been genuinely tested.